

Microsoft AI Strategy Team – Recruiting Process Overview

The recruiting process for our team consists of the following stages:

Initial Interview- 1:1

- The purpose here is to test your qualitative and quantitative skillset in a 1:1 environment
- You will receive a mix of hypothetical industry ‘what-if’ questions, behavioral questions, and/or a logic game. It will not be a full-length, consulting style case

Take Home- Half to fully day assignment

- A Take Home assessment will be administered to test specific writing and analytical skills required for your position
- You will prepare and submit materials summarizing your findings on a specific topic. Materials will be evaluated on the following dimensions:
 - Research approach and methodology
 - Connecting data to insights and recommendations
 - Clear framing and structuring
- You will work with the team to identify a mutually agreed date to complete the assessment. Because the Take Home is a half to full day assignment, we typically schedule these on weekends so you can dedicate most of the day to the assignment without work conflicts. However, we can plan for a weekday, if you prefer

Take Home Panel Discussion- panel

- Here, you will lead a presentation on your Take Home for a panel of team members
- The vast majority of this time will be spent on Q&A from the panel

Additional informal conversations- 1:1

We do not have a set deadline for interview completion. Instead, our team fills roles on a rolling basis. Therefore, we aim to move candidates as quickly as possible throughout the process.

All interviews will be conducted virtually on Teams.
