

Content Marketing Specialist Assignment

This interview is a working session. You will research Tailscale as a product and its technical features. This will help demonstrate an understanding of the use cases and personas we are creating content for. There is no deliverable: you can just show up and verbally discuss the assignment, though be prepared to engage with technical product questions and scenarios.

Here are some general recommendations and example questions that may come up:

Technical product knowledge

- Because we work very closely with product marketing, please be prepared to speak to the technical features of Tailscale. We recommend that you know at least what Tailscale is, how it works, and the main technical features (Exit nodes, Tailscale SSH, ACLs, etc.).

Some resources:

- Tailscale's documentation
- How Tailscale works
- How NAT traversal works

Applying product knowledge to content marketing

- If you were tasked with developing a new set of content deliverables around the business VPN use case for Tailscale, what would you create?
 - What is a business VPN use case? How does Tailscale provide a solution?
 - What would your process be?
 - What are the technical product features you would highlight in your content?
 - Which personas would you target, what would be their different pain points, and would you highlight different things depending on the persona?
 - What types of content would you pursue, and how would you prioritize them?

Applying that knowledge to a specific scenario

- Say a salesperson comes to you with a request. Their client is a car insurance SaaS company, and they want to migrate to Tailscale from a competing product. The software engineers building their SaaS product have huge sway at this company and heavily influence the decision makers. Their biggest concern is reliable, easy SSH. Sales is requesting that you create a one-pager within the next few days to help win the sale.
 - How would you go about creating this? What research would you do? Where would you focus your time?
 - Please focus on the technical features you find relevant, and demonstrate how you would persuade a very technically minded audience (developers in this scenario). Please speak to specific features, how they work, and why they're important to this persona.